ROCKEFELLER GETS IT

NEW YORK CENTRAL ROAD IS NO LONGER THE PROPERTY OF THE VANDERBILTS.

MOVE WAS ON A LONG TIME

STANDARD OIL INTERESTS HAD LONG TRIED TO OBTAIN CONTROL OF THE ROAD.

New York, Nov. 30.—The New York Central is no longer a Vanderbilt road. The Vanderbilt and Rockefeller holdings in the railroad have been pooled and placed in the hands of James Stillman as trustee. Stillman is president of the National City bank, the head of the Rockefeller chain of banks, and he is also the first of the Rockefeller lieutenants in railroad and other investments.

Among men who know most of railroad and stock affairs, this news is regarded as the culmination of a long known movement by which the Rockefeller family have gained control of the keystone of the Vanderbilt system. The newspapers have chronicled this advance of the Rockefeller influence in the road.

FIVE HUNDRED SHOTS FIRED.

Town of Zeigler Completely Surrounded by Armed Men.

Benton, Ill., Nov. 30.—Zeigler was fired upon Monday night from sundown to daylight. It is estimated that no less than 500 shots were fired at the town. The four Gatling guns belonging to the coal company were turned on in full force in the direction from which the shots came. The town was completely surrounded and the firing came from every quarter. Assistant Adjutant General Reece will remain several days to investigate the situation. It is thought that still more troops will be brought.

Joseph Leiter reached Zeigler Tuesday with more miners from Chicago. Examination of the ground Tuesday morning showed that the men who were fighting have powerful guns. They were stationed from one-half to three-quarters of a mile from the town. Almost a bushel of empty shells of every size and make were found in the woods. A trail of blood was found on a rail fence and from this it is supposed that at least one person was wounded. Further trouble is anticipated.

IN HIS "FOOLKILLER NO. 3."

Peter Nissen Starts Across Lake Michigan During a Gale.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—Peter Nissen of this city started Tuesday to roll across Lake Michigan in his "foolkiller No. 3." At the time of his start a forty-mile gale was heaping up a high and dangerous sea and marine men are of the opinion that Nissen will never succeed in crossing the sixty miles of water that lie between Chicago and the Michigan shore. Nissen's ship, "Foolkiller No. 3," is a canvas bag, thirty feet long, and twenty-two feet in diameter, tapering to blunt ends, where there are port holes. Inside the entire length of the bag extends a center shaft, around which, at each end, revolves a hub, and from each hub radiates a number of cotton cord spokes which are fixed in the canvas and which serve to hold the bag in shape and carry it around the center shaft. Between the spokes suspended from the shaft is a basket or seat in which the "rolling traveler" sits and steers by sliding the basket from one end of the shaft to the other.

ESTABLISHING ITS CASE.

Government Brings Out Evidence Pointing to Conspiracy.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 30.—By detail after detail the government, during Tuesday's session of the land fraud cases trial, established the circumstances of the alleged conspiracy. Point after point was adduced to show the relations between Putter and Mrs. Watson. This came out in the testimony of Wells Abell, United States commissioner of Pineville, who said he saw Mrs. Watson sign the name of William J. Putter in the presence of S. A. D. Putter, and the testimony of W. A. Richards, commissioner of the general land office, that he saw them together with United States Senator Mitchell in Washington on the occasion of an alleged call to see about expediting the consideration of the alleged fraudulent claims and respecting the patents thereto.

MUST BE TRIED IN ANOKA.

Alleged Murders of Freddie King Cannot Be Tried in Hennepin County.

Minneapolis, Nov. 30.—County Surveyor G. W. Cooley has shown that the alleged murderers of little Freddie King, who was killed at Columbia Heights Nov. 22, cannot be tried in Hennepin county.

The law provides that where crimes are committed within 100 rods of the boundary of two counties either county can assume jurisdiction. It was ascertained that the scene of the murder is 230 feet beyond the 100-rod limit, so the trials must be held in Anoka county.

Hammond, Kaldervia and Kolb were measured by the Bertillon system Tuesday.

Witnesses Subpoenaed.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Senator Burrows, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, has issued subpoenas for twenty witnesses in the Senator Rood Smoot investigation, and has fixed Monday, Dec. 12, as the day for their appearance before the committee. Nearly all the witnesses are in Utah.

Arbitration Treaty With Italy.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Italy has accepted the invitation of the American government to conclude an arbitration treaty. The treaty will be almost identical with those already completed between France and Germany.

WOUNDS TWO MEN.

Joe Jackson Uses a Revolver With Serious Results.

Minneapolis, Nov. 30.—A Williston, N. D., special to the Tribune says: John D. Belyea and Chief of Police M. G. Markell were shot here Tuesday by Joe Jackson, a Swede. Jackson entered the office of J. D. Belyea and fired two shots at Belyea, one going through his hat and making a scalp wound. After firing the last of the two shots, Jackson started out but at the door he ran into the arms of Chief Markell. Markell grabbed him by both arms, when Jackson fired twice. The second shot took effect in Chief Markell's right hip. Markell fell and Jackson had his gun down on him again and had it not been for a bystander he would have ended Markell's life then and there. Jackson is now in the county jail. His victims may recover.

SETTLERS MURDERED

FIFTY DUTCH PEOPLE KILLED BY

SOUTH AFRICAN NATIVES IN COLD BLOOD.

London, Nov. 30.—The Standard's Cape Town correspondent reports that the position of the whites in German Southwest Africa is precarious. Wholesale murders by Hottentots are reported from various sources, and an Upington dispatch states that insurgents have massacred fifty Dutch settlers in cold blood. White women and children, it is added, are fleeing into Cape territory.

MUST AWAIT AN APPROPRIATION.

Cuban Government Willing to Improve Sanitary Conditions.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Mr. Squiers, the American minister to Cuba, in a cablegram to the state department reports that the Cuban government has expressed its willingness to do all that it can to improve the sanitary condition of Santiago and of other places in Cuba, but that President Palma must await an appropriation by congress for this purpose before headway can be made. Acting under instructions from Washington, Mr. Squiers presented to the Cuban foreign office an emphatic communication in which attention was called to the wretched sanitary conditions of Santiago and the hope was expressed that the matter would receive the early consideration of the government.

SCORE OF PERSONS INJURED.

Spectators at Basketball Game Meet With an Accident.

Philadelphia, Nov. 30.—A score of boys and young men were hurt by the giving way of a gallery railing in the state fencibles armory here at night during the progress of a basketball game. None of the injured, who were removed to a position nearby, is fatally hurt. There were about 200 spectators in the armory at the time. During the game a fight started between two players and the spectators in the gallery pressed forward to see the disturbance. Without warning two-thirds of the railing gave way and about fifty persons fell to the floor below. It was at first thought that some of the spectators were killed, but the hospital physicians say that all will recover.

TAKING THE LAST HILL

JAPANESE TROOPS CONTINUE TO ATTACK MAIN DEFENSE OF PORT ARTHUR.

ARE CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS

BROWN MEN EXPECT TO CARRY THE HILL AND SEAL FATE OF THE FORTRESS.

Tokio, Nov. 30.—The attack against 203-Meter hill, begun on Monday morning, is still in progress and is expected to be successful. With this last range of hills in the possession of General Nogai no part of the harbor nor of the city of Port Arthur will be concealed from the view of the Japanese gunners.

The prompt destruction of the warships and burning of the city will follow unless surrender is offered without delay. There is no refuge for General Stoessel's army except on the line of hills southwest of Port Arthur, known as the Liaotie mountains. There is no water there for an army's supply and there would be no way of obtaining food except that carried in the flight which must follow the final assault of the Japanese.

GOES BEYOND THE FACTS.

Report That Jap Guns Crown Crest of Key Position.

London, Nov. 30.—According to a Tokyo dispatch to the Standard, there is an unofficial rumor that the Japanese have hauled large caliber guns to the top of 203-Meter hill, from whence their fire has a sweep of the whole harbor. This report doubtless goes beyond the facts, but various dispatches indicate the progress the Japanese are making in the reduction of Port Arthur. Japanese here explain the great importance of the capture of 203-Meter hill, which, besides giving command of the harbor, will serve to widen the breach made by the wedge the Japanese had previously driven in between the Elise fort and the Russians' last retreat in the ravines of Laotie mountain. They declare that retreat to Laotie will be effectually cut off and that it is not unlikely that Laotie will be simultaneously attacked in the final assault.

Bennett Burleigh wires to the Daily Telegraph from Chefoo that in the last assault the Japanese lost 4,000 in one hour's fighting. They claim to have captured two more of the eastern forts, and a third which is part of the west Keekwan group. They claim, Mr. Burleigh says, that they have effected a lodgment at Pigeon bay, thus turning the fort on 203-Meter hill, and that they are now tunnelling from the gorge below Laotie hill, which they hope to first damage and then to rush. The dispatch adds:

"Desperate fighting is proceeding daily and the losses are admitted to be excessive; but the Japanese insist that Port Arthur must fall within twenty-one days."

The Morning Post's correspondent at Shanghai telegraphs that wireless communication has been re-established between the Russian consulate at Chefoo and the Port Arthur garrison.

MANY JAPANESE FELL

RUSSIANS FOUND MORE THAN TWO HUNDRED DEAD ON THE BATTLEFIELD.

Mukden, Nov. 30.—The activity of the Japanese against General Rennenkampf's front continued Nov. 28, culminating before noon in one of the severest fights in recent weeks. The Japanese retired only about 600 yards, but after the fight the Russians collected 230 Japanese corpses, all from the Seventh and Ninth reserve brigades. The Russians also captured a large quantity of rifles, entrenching tools and Red Cross stores.

Night sorties continue. Russian scouts prove very adaptable to this sort of work and can go all around the Japanese in woodcraft.

On the night of Nov. 25 a party of Siberian sharpshooters went out and captured every one of the guards in front of a Japanese party cutting firewood, without arousing the suspicions of the Japanese that anything had happened. On the evening of Nov. 27 a party of Russian volunteers practically wiped out the village of Nanganza, situated at the foot of the double humped hill opposite Poutloff (Lone Tree) hill.

The Japanese had been occupying a building in this village every night and hampering the Russian sharpshooters. Attacking the village in the evening, the Russian volunteers drove out the Japanese from the village early in the evening, mined the building and retired. The Japanese subsequently reoccupied the building, which was blown up, and almost the whole village destroyed. The Russian losses during the whole affair were 3 men killed and 15 wounded.

Chinese report that the main Japanese force is located at Shakhoe on the railroad and fifteen miles south of Shakhoe, but it is impossible to estimate its number. The Japanese at close quarters and especially during night fighting continually use Russian words and phrases with the object of misleading their foes. General Linevitch has especially warned the troops on this point.

Submarines Going to Vladivostok.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 30.—Two Russian submarine boats were put on railway flat cars here Tuesday to be transported to Vladivostok.

Depart for the Far East.

Cherbourg, Nov. 30.—The Russian cruiser Duple and two torpedo boat destroyers, after repairing here, have left for the far East.

STORY SAID TO BE RIDICULOUS.

Andrew Carnegie's Name Not on Mrs. Chadwick's Notes.

Oberlin, O., Nov. 30.—A meeting of the directors of the failed Citizens' bank was held Tuesday. Director J. R. Randolph made the startling statement that the signature on the collateral notes for $500,000 and $250,000 on which Mrs. Chadwick was loaned money is not worth a dollar. He said he had seen the notes and they are not signed by Andrew Carnegie; that such a story is ridiculous. In his opinion Mr. Randolph says the signature does not add a dollar to the value of the paper.

FIGHTING FINALLY ENDED.

Japs Repulsed by Cossacks Under General Rennenkampf.

With the Russian Forces at Shengking, Nov. 30.—The fight of the Japanese with General Rennenkampf's Cossacks, which began on Nov. 24, ended at 6 p. m. on Nov. 28. The Japanese, who were repulsed, never approached nearer than 600 yards. During a snowstorm at midday on Nov. 28, the Japanese tried to outflank the Russian right, but the rifles and field guns forced them to withdraw. The Russian losses were small. On Nov. 27 Russian scouts captured Nangentze village and held it twenty minutes while sappers blew up a large stone house which had served as a fortress from which the Japanese sniped Russian outposts.

ACCEPTED VERY SERIOUSLY.

Foreign Reports of Fighting at Port Arthur Discourage Russians.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 30.—Foreign reports of the fighting at Port Arthur are accepted here very seriously. If the Japanese have taken 203-Meter hill, as reported, and are commanding the whole harbor, it is believed that the situation is critical. Experts on Port Arthur topography assert, however, that it is more likely that the Japanese have occupied some positions at the base of the hill and believe that with the concentrated fire of the covering forts the Japanese will find the top of the hill untenable, if they arrive there.

RESISTANCE TOO GREAT.

Japs Unable to Carry Port Arthur by Storm.

Berlin, Nov. 30.—A dispatch from Tokio to the Tagliche Rundschau reports that the Japanese storming of Port Arthur was abandoned on Nov. 28, though large breaches had been made in the Sungshu, Rihlung and Keekwan forts, the Japanese were unable to enter on account of the heavy fire from the other forts and the resistance of the garrison.

TRAGEDY CAUSED A PANIC.

New Jersey Man Attempts Murder and Then Suicide in a Chicago Store.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—Shoppers in one of the large department stores on State street were thrown into a state of panic Tuesday when Paul Herczick, twenty-three years of age, fired a shot at his wife and then committed suicide. The couple, who had evidently met by appointment, had been in conversation some time when the woman suddenly arose and started to walk away. The man followed and drawing a revolver from his pocket fired a shot at her. The shot missed the woman and imbedded itself in a wall of the building. Apparently thinking he had killed his wife Herczick placed the muzzle of the revolver in his mouth and pulled the trigger. He died instantly. Herczick lived in Trenton, N. J., and was on a visit here.

Kruger's Body at Cape Town.

Cape Town, Nov. 30.—The Dutch steamer Batavier having on board the body of Paul Kruger, former president of the Transvaal republic, arrived here Tuesday almost unnoticed. The remains will lie in state here and will leave for Pretoria Dec. 7.

Chicago Woman Victorious.

St. Louis, Nov. 30.—Mrs. Gertrude Hull of Chicago won the Olympic tennis championship for women Tuesday night, when she rolled a total of 945 pins against Miss Birdie Kern, who totalled 856.

Depart for the Far East.

Cherbourg, Nov. 30.—The Russian cruiser Danieper and two torpedo boat destroyers, after repairing here, have left for the far East.

STORY SAID TO BE RIDICULOUS.

Andrew Carnegie's Name Not on Mrs. Chadwick's Notes.

Oberlin, O., Nov. 30.—A meeting of the directors of the failed Citizens' bank was held Tuesday. Director J. R. Randolph made the startling statement that the signature on the collateral notes for $500,000 and $250,000 on which Mrs. Chadwick was loaned money is not worth a dollar. He said he had seen the notes and they are not signed by Andrew Carnegie; that such a story is ridiculous. In his opinion Mr. Randolph says the signature does not add a dollar to the value of the paper.

FIGHTING FINALLY ENDED.

Japs Repulsed by Cossacks Under General Rennenkampff.

With the Russian Forces at Shengking, Nov. 30.—The fight of the Japanese with General Rennenkampff's Cossacks, which began on Nov. 24, ended at 6 p. m. on Nov. 28. The Japanese, who were repulsed, never approached nearer than 600 yards. During a snowstorm at midday on Nov. 28, the Japanese tried to outflank the Russian right, but the rifles and field guns forced them to withdraw. The Russian losses were small.

On Nov. 27 Russian scouts captured Nangentze village and held it twenty minutes while sappers blew up a large stone house which had served as a fortress from which the Japanese sniped Russian outposts.

ACCEPTED VERY SERIOUSLY.

Foreign Reports of Fighting at Port Arthur Discourage Russians.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 30.—Foreign reports of the fighting at Port Arthur are accepted here very seriously. If the Japanese have taken 203-Meter hill, as reported, and are commanding the whole harbor, it is believed that the situation is critical. Experts on Port Arthur topography assert, however, that it is more likely that the Japanese have occupied some positions at the base of the hill and believe that with the concentrated fire of the covering forts the Japanese will find the top of the hill untenable, if they arrive there.

RESISTANCE TOO GREAT.

Japs Unable to Carry Port Arthur by Storm.

Berlin, Nov. 30.—A dispatch from Tokio to the Tagliche Rundschau reports that the Japanese storming of Port Arthur was abandoned on Nov. 28, though large breaches had been made in the Sungshu, Rihlung and Keekwan forts, the Japanese were unable to enter on account of the heavy fire from the other forts and the resistance of the garrison.

TRAGEDY CAUSED A PANIC.

New Jersey Man Attempts Murder and Then Suicides in a Chicago Store.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—Shoppers in one of the large department stores on State street were thrown into a state of panic Tuesday when Paul Herczlik, twenty-three years of age, fired a shot at his wife and then committed suicide. The couple, who had evidently met by appointment, had been in conversation some time when the woman suddenly arose and started to walk away. The man followed and drawing a revolver from his pocket fired a shot at her. The shot missed the woman and imbedded itself in a wall of the building. Apparently thinking he had killed his wife Herczlik placed the muzzle of the revolver in his mouth and pulled the trigger. He died instantly. Herczlik lived in Trenton, N. J., and was on a visit here.

Kruger's Body at Cape Town.

Cape Town, Nov. 30.—The Dutch steamer Batavier having on board the body of Paul Kruger, former president of the Transvaal republic, arrived here Tuesday almost unnoticed. The remains will lie in state here and will leave for Pretoria Dec. 7.

Chicago Woman Victorious.

St. Louis, Nov. 30.—Mrs. Gertrude Hull of Chicago won the Olympic tennis championship for women Tuesday night, when she rolled a total of 945 pins against Miss Birdie Kern, who totalled 856.

Ouray, Colo., Nov. 30.—After a meeting of the San Juan district miners' association Tuesday night, President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners gave out the statement that the strike in the Telluride district had been declared off and that an official statement to this effect would be issued immediately.

CONFERENCE POSTPONED.

Secretary Taft and Panama Officials Do Not Meet.

Panama, Nov. 30.—No conference between Secretary Taft and the Panamanians was held Tuesday, owing to the authorities of Panama being engaged in preparing a memorandum of the points at issue, which will be considered by the secretary and an answer prepared for presentation as soon as possible.

ROCKEFELLER GETS IT

NEW YORK CENTRAL ROAD IS NO LONGER THE PROPERTY OF THE VANDERBILTS.

MOVE WAS ON A LONG TIME

STANDARD OIL INTERESTS HAD LONG TRIED TO OBTAIN CONTROL OF THE ROAD.

New York, Nov. 30.—The New York Central is no longer a Vanderbilt road. The Vanderbilt and Rockefeller holdings in the railroad have been pooled and placed in the hands of James Stillman as trustee. Stillman is president of the National City bank, the head of the Rockefeller chain of banks, and he is also the first of the Rockefeller lieutenants in railroad and other investments.

Among men who know most of railroad and stock affairs, this news is regarded as the culmination of a long known movement by which the Rockefellers were gaining control of the keystone of the Vanderbilt system. The newspapers have chronicled this advance of the Rockefeller influence in the road.

FIVE HUNDRED SHOTS FIRED.

Town of Zeigler Completely Surrounded by Armed Men.

Benton, Ill., Nov. 30.—Zeigler was fired upon Monday night from sundown to daylight. It is estimated that no less than 500 shots were fired at the town. The four Gatling guns belonging to the coal company were turned on in full force in the direction from which the shots came. The town was completely surrounded and the firing came from every quarter. Assistant Adjutant General Reece will remain several days to investigate the situation. It is thought that still more troops will be brought.

Joseph Leiter reached Zeigler Tuesday with more miners from Chicago. Examination of the ground Tuesday morning showed that the men who were fighting have powerful guns. They were stationed from one-half to three-quarters of a mile from the town. Almost a bushel of empty shells of every size and make were found in the woods. A trail of blood was found on a rail fence and from this it is supposed that at least one person was wounded. Further trouble is anticipated.

IN HIS "FOOLKILLER NO. 3."

Peter Nissen Starts Across Lake Michigan During a Gale.

Chicago, Nov. 30.—Peter Nissen of this city started Tuesday to roll across Lake Michigan in his "foolkiller No. 3." At the time of his start a forty-mile gale was heaping up a high and dangerous sea and marine men are of the opinion that Nissen will never succeed in crossing the sixty miles of water that lie between Chicago and the Michigan shore. Nissen's ship, "Foolkiller No. 3," is a canvas bag, thirty feet long, and twenty-two feet in diameter, tapering to blunt ends, where there are port holes. Inside the entire length of the bag extends a center shaft, around which, at each end, revolves a hub, and from each hub radiates a number of cotton cord spokes which are fixed in the canvas and which serve to hold the bag in shape and carry it around the center shaft. Between the spokes suspended from the shaft is a basket or seat in which the "rolling traveler" sits and steers by sliding the basket from one end of the shaft to the other.

ESTABLISHING ITS CASE.

Government Brings Out Evidence Pointing to Conspiracy.

Portland, Ore., Nov. 30.—By detail after detail, the government, during

Tuesday's session of the land fraud cases trial, established the circumstances of the alleged conspiracy. Point after point was adduced to show the relations between Putter and Mrs. Watson. This came out in the testimony of Wells Abell, United States commissioner of Pineville, who said he saw Mrs. Watson sign the name of William J. Putter in the presence of S. A. D. Putter, and the testimony of W. A. Richards, commissioner of the general land office, that he saw them together with United States Senator Mitchell in Washington on the occasion of an alleged call to see about expediting the consideration of the alleged fraudulent claims and respecting the patents thereto.

MUST BE TRIED IN ANOKA.

Alleged Murders of Freddie King Cannot Be Tried in Hennepin County.

Minneapolis, Nov. 30.—County Surveyor G. W. Cooley has shown that the alleged murders of little Freddie King, who was killed at Columbia Heights Nov. 22, cannot be tried in Hennepin county.

The law provides that where crimes are committed within 100 rods of the boundary of two counties either county can assume jurisdiction. It was ascertained that the scene of the murder is 230 feet beyond the 100-rod limit, so the trials must be held in Anoka county.

Hammond, Kaldervia and Kolb were measured by the Bertillon system Tuesday.

Witnesses Subpoenaed.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Senator Burrows, chairman of the committee on privileges and elections, has issued subpoenas for twenty witnesses in the Senator Rood Smoot investigation, and has fixed Monday, Dec. 12, as the day for their appearance before the committee. Nearly all the witnesses are in Utah.

Arbitration Treaty With Italy.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Italy has accepted the invitation of the American government to conclude an arbitration treaty. The treaty will be almost identical with those already completed between France and Germany.

WOUNDS TWO MEN.

Joe Jackson Uses a Revolver With Serious Results.

Minneapolis, Nov. 30.—A Williston, N. D., special to the Tribune says: John D. Belyea and Chief of Police M. G. Markell were shot here Tuesday by Joe Jackson, a Swede. Jackson entered the office of J. D. Belyea and fired two shots at Belyea, one going through his hat and making a scalp wound. After firing the last of the two shots, Jackson started out but at the door he ran into the arms of Chief Markell. Markell grabbed him by both arms, when Jackson fired twice. The second shot took effect in Chief Markell's right hip. Markell fell and Jackson had his gun down on him again and had it not been for a bystander he would have ended Markell's life then and there. Jackson is now in the county jail. His victims may recover.

SETTLERS MURDERED

FIFTY DUTCH PEOPLE KILLED BY SOUTH AFRICAN NATIVES IN COLD BLOOD.

London, Nov. 30.—The Standard's Cape Town correspondent reports that the position of the whites in German Southwest Africa is precarious. Wholesale murders by Hottentots are reported from various sources, and an Upington dispatch states that insurgents have massacred fifty Dutch settlers in cold blood. White women and children, it is added, are fleeing into Cape territory.

MUST AWAIT AN APPROPRIATION.

Cuban Government Willing to Improve Sanitary Conditions.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Mr. Squiers, the American minister to Cuba, in a cablegram to the state department reports that the Cuban government has expressed its willingness to do all that it can to improve the sanitary condition of Santiago and of other places in Cuba, but that President Palma must await an appropriation by congress for this purpose before headway can be made. Acting under instructions from Washington, Mr. Squiers presented to the Cuban foreign office an emphatic communication in which attention was called to the wretched sanitary conditions of Santiago and the hope was expressed that the matter would receive the early consideration of the government.

SCORE OF PERSONS INJURED.

Spectators at Basketball Game Meet With an Accident.

Philadelphia, Nov. 30.—A score of boys and young men were hurt by the giving way of a gallery railing in the state fencibles armory here at night during the progress of a basketball game. None of the injured, who were removed to a position nearby, is fatally hurt. There were about 200 spectators in the armory at the time. During the game a fight started between two players and the spectators in the gallery pressed forward to see the disturbance. Without warning two-thirds of the railing gave way and about fifty persons fell to the floor below. It was at first thought that some of the spectators were killed, but the hospital physicians say that all will recover.

TAKING THE LAST HILL

JAPANESE TROOPS CONTINUE TO ATTACK MAIN DEFENSE OF PORT ARTHUR.

ARE CONFIDENT OF SUCCESS

BROWN MEN EXPECT TO CARRY THE HILL AND SEAL FATE OF THE FORTRESS.

Tokio, Nov. 30.—The attack against 203-Meter hill, begun on Monday morning, is still in progress and is expected to be successful. With this last range of hills in the possession of General Nogai no part of the harbor nor of the city of Port Arthur will be concealed from the view of the Japanese gunners.

The prompt destruction of the warships and burning of the city will follow unless surrender is offered without delay. There is no refuge for General Stoessel's army except on the line of hills southwest of Port Arthur, known as the Liaotie mountains. There is no water there for an army's supply and there would be no way of obtaining food except that carried in the flight which must follow the final assault of the Japanese.

GOES BEYOND THE FACTS.

Report That Jap Guns Crown Crest of Key Position.

London, Nov. 30.—According to a Tokyo dispatch to the Standard, there is an unofficial rumor that the Japanese have hauled large caliber guns to the top of 203-Meter hill, from whence their fire has a sweep of the whole harbor. This report doubtless goes beyond the facts, but various dispatches indicate the progress the Japanese are making in the reduction of Port Arthur. Japanese here explain the great importance of the capture of 203-Meter hill, which, besides giving command of the harbor, will serve to widen the breach made by the wedge the Japanese had previously driven in between the Etse fort and the Russians' last retreat in the ravines of Laotie mountain. They declare that retreat to Laotie will be effectually cut off and that it is not unlikely that Laotie will be simultaneously attacked in the final assault.

Bennett Burleigh wires to the Daily Telegraph from Chefoo that in the last assault the Japanese lost 4,000 in one hour's fighting. They claim to have captured two more of the eastern forts, and a third which is part of the west Keekwan group. They claim, Mr. Burleigh says, that they have effected a lodgment at Pigeon bay, thus turning the fort on 203-Meter hill, and that they are now tunnelling from the gorge below Laotie hill, which they hope to first damage and then to rush. The dispatch adds:

"Desperate fighting is proceeding daily and the losses are admitted to be excessive; but the Japanese insist that Port Arthur must fall within twenty-one days."

The Morning Post's correspondent at Shanghai telegraphs that wireless communication has been re-established between the Russian consulate at Chefoo and the Port Arthur garrison.

MANY JAPANESE FELL

RUSSIANS FOUND MORE THAN TWO HUNDRED DEAD ON THE BATTLEFIELD.

Mukden, Nov. 30.—The activity of the Japanese against General Rennenkampf's front continued Nov. 28, culminating before noon in one of the severest fights in recent weeks. The Japanese retired only about 600 yards, but after the fight the Russians collected 230 Japanese corpses, all from the Seventh and Ninth reserve brigades. The Russians also captured a large quantity of rifles, entrenching tools and Red Cross stores.

Night sorties continue. Russian scouts prove very adaptable to this sort of work and can go all around the Japanese in woodcraft.

On the night of Nov. 25 a party of Siberian sharpshooters went out and captured every one of the guards in front of a Japanese party cutting firewood, without arousing the suspicions of the Japanese that anything had happened. On the evening of Nov. 27 a party of Russian volunteers practically wiped out the village of Nanganza, situated at the foot of the double humped hill opposite Poutiloff (Lone Tree) hill.

The Japanese had been occupying a building in this village every night and hampering the Russian sharpshooters. Attacking the village in the rear, the Russian volunteers drove out the Japanese from the village early in the evening, mined the building and retired. The Japanese subsequently reoccupied the building, which was blown up, and almost the whole village destroyed. The Russian losses during the whole affair were 3 men killed and 15 wounded.

Chinese report that the main Japanese force is located at Shakhe on the railroad and fifteen miles south of Shakhe, but it is impossible to estimate its number.

The Japanese at close quarters and especially during night fighting continually use Russian words and phrases with the object of misleading their foes. General Linevitch has especially warned the troops on this point.

Submarines Going to Vladivostok.

St. Petersburg, Nov. 30.—Two Russian submarine boats were put on railway flat cars here Tuesday to be transported to Vladivostok.

Depart for the Far East.

Cherbourg, Nov. 30.—The Russian cruiser Dnieper and two torpedo boat destroyers, after repairing here, have left for the far East.

POLITICAL SPARKS.

As a result of Roosevelt carrying a "big stick," every nation on the globe that has not a treaty at the present time with us is anxious to have one.

Judge Parker gave thanks that the gold standard is irrevocably fixed.

Some of the funny papers are trying to go through the fun again that they had in the campaign.

By the time all the democratic ballot-box stuffers of Denver are jailed, there won't be enough left to keep up an organization.

Democracy spent thanksgiving day in thanking us that it was not worse.

It wasn't so much that the turkey trust needed the money as it was that they had us by the goosier.

It is believed that Mr. Bryan had the happiest thanksgiving in the last eight years.

Nan Patterson, the murderer-actress, seems to be depending more on her winsome looks and jury-winks more than she is on the defense of her lawyers.

Harry Payne Whitney has hired a jockey to ride his horses for $30,000 per. An esteemed contemporary observes that a whole corps of college professors could be hired for that.

The foot ball teams have piled up such big surpluses in their treasuries that it is feared they will get into the hands of the trusts.

With Mexico and China both trying to adopt the gold standard there was but little left for which the populists could give thanks.

The democrats are trying to sympathize with Roosevelt for fear the pie will run short with such a large number of office-seekers. Why bless you little dears, prosperity is so rampant that Mr. Roosevelt is giving offices to democrats and begging acceptances.

There is one thing for which the democrats are grateful to a man. They won't have to buck against Roosevelt next time.

A western paper wants to know "What is home?" Its a place where some of us have our socks darned.

The democratic papers are nearly through explaining it. We are thankful for that.

Grover Cleveland should be ashamed of himself in keeping us in such suspense—nearly a month has passed since it happened, but not a word from him as to how it was done.

Young Mr. Rockefeller is having difficulty in explaining to his bible class how his papa's money is not the "root of all evil."

It has been proposed to trade the democratic mule for a zebra. They want something that looks frisky.

Admiral Togo is so tired waiting for the Baltic fleet, that he has offered to meet it half way.

According to the census reports, cooks are better paid than school teachers. A man's stomach holds more than his head.

A western editor narrowly escaped a whipping by running away. He wasn't a stand pat editor then.

Intercollegiate Foot Ball.

The Men's Debating Club held its regular meeting last night in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. The vocal duet by Mr. Riley B. Wray, and Harry Butts accompanied by Mrs. Wray on the piano was greatly enjoyed by all, and Prof. Santee's extemporaneous speech on President Roosevelt was very good and the Professor should have a cabinet position on the strength of it. The question of debate was: "Resolved, that intercollegiate foot ball promotes the best interests of colleges." The affirmative, Mr. W. W. Barron and Jay Patek, received the decision, but the negative Mr. G. H. Thomas and R. E. Doran made them fight hard for it. The debaters all did good hard work and made the discussion of interest to all. Officers were elected for the next month: Pres. G. H. Thomas, Vice Pres. Harry Butts, Sec. W. W. Barron. Two members names were handed in. The judges of debate were: Mr. Davis, H. Butts and Ray Butts. The members of the club should be congratulated on the progress they have made.

POLITICAL SPARKS.

As a result of Roosevelt carrying a "big stick," every nation on the globe that has not a treaty at the present time with us is anxious to have one.

Judge Parker gave thanks that the gold standard is irrevocably fixed.

Some of the funny papers are trying to go through the fun again that they had in in the campaign.

By the time all the democratic ballot-box stuffers of Denver are jailed, there won't be enough left to keep up an organization.

Democracy spent thanksgiving day in thanking us that it was not worse.

It wasn't so much that the turkey trust needed the money as it was that they had us by the goozler.

It is believed that Mr. Bryan had the happiest thanksgiving in the last eight years.

Nan Patterson, the murderer-actress, seems to be depending more on her winsome looks and jury-winks more than she is on the defense of her lawyers.

Harry Payne Whitney has hired a jockey to ride his horses for $30,000 per. An esteemed contemporary observes that a whole corps of college professors could be hired for that.

The foot ball teams have piled up such big surpluses in their treasuries that it is feared they will get into the hands of the trusts.

With Mexico and China both trying to adopt the gold standard there was but little left for which the populists could give thanks.

The democrats are trying to sympathize with Roosevelt for fear the pie will run short with such a large number of office-seekers. Why bless you little dears, prosperity is so rampant that Mr. Roosevelt is giving offices to democrats and begging acceptances.

There is one thing for which the democrats are grateful to a man. They won't have to buck against Roosevelt next time.

A western paper wants to know "What is home?" Its a place where some of us have our socks darned.

The democratic papers are nearly through explaining it. We are thankful for that.

Grover Cleveland should be ashamed of himself in keeping us in such suspense—nearly a month has passed since it happened, but not a word from him as to how it was done.

Young Mr. Rockefeller is having difficulty in explaining to his bible class how his papa's money is not the "root of all evil."

It has been proposed to trade the democratic mule for a zebra. They want something that looks frisky.

Admiral Togo is so tired waiting for the Baltic fleet, that he has offered to meet it half-way.

According to the census reports, cooks are better paid than school teachers. A man's stomach holds more than his head.

A western editor narrowly escaped a whipping by running away. He wasn't a stand-pat editor then.

Intercollegiate Foot Ball.

The Men's Debating Club held its regular meeting last night in the Y. M. C. A. rooms. The vocal duet by Mr. Riley B. Wray, and Harry Butts accompanied by Mrs. Wray on the piano was greatly enjoyed by all, and Prof. Santee's extemporaneous speech on President Roosevelt was very good and the Professor should have a cabinet position on the strength of it. The question of debate was: "Resolved, that intercollegiate foot ball promotes the best interests of colleges." The affirmative, Mr. W. W. Barron and Jay Patek, received the decision, but the negative Mr. G. H. Thomas and R. E. Doran made them fight hard for it. The debaters all did good hard work and made the discussion of interest to all. Officers were elected for the next month: Pres. G. H. Thomas, Vice Pres. Harry Butts, Sec. W. W. Barron. Two members names were handed in. The judges of debate were: Mr. Davis, H. Butts and Ray Butts. The members of the club should be congratulated on the progress they have made.

CORBETT IS DEFEATED
"BATTLING" NELSON OF CHICAGO
VICTORIOUS OVER THE DEN-VER FIGHTER.
FIGHT HARD AND FAST ONE
BEATEN PUGILIST PUT UP GAME
BATTLE FROM THE START
UNTIL THE END.

San Francisco, Nov. 30.—In the greatest fight witnessed between little men in years, "Batling" Nelson of Chicago won from "Young Corbett" of Denver in ten rounds. From the tap of the gong until Corbett's seconds threw up the sponge Nelson was master of the situation at every stage of the game. His in-fighting was a revelation and the most brilliant witnessed in any ring here. For the last three rounds of the fight Corbett was as helpless as a baby, but he wobbled around groggily and gamely, until the repeated calls from around the house to stop the fight caused Harry Tuthill to enter the ring. The fight was over and the new man is in line to fight Champion Britt.
The story of the fight is simply told.
Corbett entered the ring at 9:45 almost unnoticed owing to the presence of a gaudy hued negro whom Announcer Billy Jordan introduced as Count Bisrial, champion Graeco-Roman wrestler of the world.
"Batling" Nelson entered five minutes later.
Although it was not a championship affair, the tense stillness of the big house as the men squared up to each other showed the interest taken in the event.
Both men showed extreme caution
in the first round, there being an evident disposition to take each other's measure. Neither showed the slightest nervousness.
Went Right at His Man.
In the second round Nelson went right at his man, winning the cheers of the house. The milling was fast and Corbett looked a bit dazed but wrote a contemptuous smile. Corbett was bleeding at the nose when he went to his corner. Nelson surprised the house by his brilliant in-fighting.
Corbett was bleeding freely at the end of the third round. The next two rounds showed some of the fastest milling seen in any ring. Nelson continually forced Corbett to the ropes and beat him badly with short-arm blows. "Keep away from him" continually yelled Corbett's seconds. They began to realize that the Chicago lad was the superior of the man who was supposed to be master at in-fighting, but Corbett always came back swift and hard when away at arm's length.
Then the gruelling work of Nelson began to tell. Corbett was between the ropes three-fourths of the time.
He repeatedly missed uppercuts and swings that would have ended the fight at this stage had they landed.
The sixth was a furious round which ended in Nelson beating Corbett all over the ring. The house was going wild. Nelson kept up the work in the seventh, beating Corbett until his face was streaming with blood. Corbett had but one chance—to lay for and land the punch for which he is famous, but he never got the chance. In the eighth Nelson even outboxed the Denver lad, who was all but out when the bell rang.
The Ninth a Terrible Round.
The ninth was a terrible round. Corbett withstood blow after blow with marvelous endurance. "Keep away, keep away; use judgment," his seconds kept repeating. But Corbett missed again and again. He seemed to lose judgment, strength and every quality which had formerly given him fame.
The cry of "stop the fight" was yelled from every part of the house, but it was not until the tenth that the butchered ended. Corbett wobbled around the ring gamely, but was as helpless as a lame duck. Harry Tut-hill then jumped into the ring and a great yell went up from the crowd.
The fight was over.
Corbett, bathed in blood and with a sickly smile, shook hands with the victor and was then helped out of the ring. Nelson looked strong and was unmarked. He received the congratulations of scores of friends who crowded about him. After posing for the snapshot men he was carried off on the shoulders of his smiling friends.
A large crowd attended the fight,
which was held in Woodward's pavilion. The men both weighed in at 120 pounds. Corbett was the favorite at odds of 2 to 1.

ed at the office of Peter E. Hanson,

An Insurance Story.
They tell this story down on Wall street: The executive officer of a great insurance company, happening one day to meet a friend in the street, found himself violently upbraided because his company refused to invest in the bonds of an enterprise with which his friend was connected.
The insurance man stood it a few minutes, then said carelessly, as if he were ordering a box of a new brand of cigars, "Oh, well, send me up a million and a half of them."—World's Work.

They Try to Look at It Through the Eyes of the Artist Who Painted It.
The first necessity for the proper seeing of a picture is to try to see it through the eyes of the artist who painted it. This is not a usual method. Generally people look only through their own eyes and like or dislike a picture according as it does or does not suit their particular fancy. These people will tell you, "Oh, I don't know anything about painting, but I know what I like," which is their way of saying, "If I don't like it right off I don't care to be bothered to like it at all."
Such an attitude of mind cuts one off from growth and development, for it is as much as to say, "I am very well satisfied with myself and quite indifferent to the experiences and feelings of other men." Yet it is just this feeling and experience of another man which a picture gives us. If you consider a moment you will understand why. The world itself is a vast panorama, and from it the painter selects his subject—not the copy of it exactly,
since it would be impossible for him to do this even if he tried. How could he represent, for example, each blade of grass, each leaf upon a tree? So what he does is to represent the subject as he sees it, as it appeals to his sympathy or interest, and if twelve artists painted the same landscape the result would be twelve different pictures, differing according to the way in which each man had been impressed by the scene—in fact, according to his separate point of view or separate way of seeing it, influenced by his individual experience and feeling.—Charles H. Corbin in St. Nicholas.

ESDON ETCHINGS.
Miss Kate Goola spent Thanksgiving
at home.
Bert Shew left for his work at Crook-ston the 21st.
Edgar Walker expects to return to Minneapolis soon.
Sam Hammett has gone to Kelliher to work for the winter.
Chas. Isle returned from his hunting trip north last week.
Mrs. Hilda Isle moved to Brainerd about two weeks ago.
Miss Delle Paine spent Thanksgiving
at her home in Brainerd.
Miss Mollie Avery has been making her brother, Joe and family a visit.
Miss Bessie Hammett made a short
call in Esdon Thanksgiving evening.
Old Mr. Shew is feeling a good deal better than he was and is now able to sit up.
Mrs. Conrad Isle is out on a visit for a few days and also keeping house for Phil and Connie, who are keeping Bachelor hall.
Miss Maud Baumgarten, who went home the night before Thanksgiving, was too ill to return to her school until last Wednesday.
Miss Della Paine had a very nice school entertainment the Tuesday before Thanksgiving. The songs were very nicely given considering the number of really small children that helped.
The whole entertainment showed faithful work by both teacher and pupils.

Sure Relief for Women.
No. 18 Central Ave.
HOT SPRING, ARK., April 30, 1903.
Eighteen months ago I was so completely run down that my body ached from head to foot. My back seemed to break in two and I suffered intense pain in the lower abdomen. I could not afford to lay off and take a rest, and no medicine helped me any.
A friend told me how much Wine of Cardui built her up and advised me by all means to take it. The day I took the first dose the recovery of my health began. It was nearly three months before I was entirely cured, but at the end of that time I was in better health than I had been for seven years.
I look on Wine of Cardui as the most blessed medicine that a woman could possibly take when she feels sick and tired of life.
Anna Nelson
ORATOR, WEDNESDAY CHAUTAUQUE CLUB.

WINE of CARDUI
Mrs. Nelson describes the condition of thousands of women. That condition comes by slow stages. Usually the important function of menstruation is at first slightly irregular. Then comes the painful periods. Bearing-down pains and ovarian inflammation follow. Finally the nervous system gives way and the whole system has become affected and the pains rack the body from head to foot.
Wine of Cardui is a menstrual regulator of established reputation. No woman who takes it suffers as Mrs. Nelson suffered. It gives speedy and complete relief from the torturing menstrual agonies which are making so many women invalids today. Do not let yourself come to the pitiable condition Mrs. Nelson describes.
Secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today and begin treatment immediately.

Struck a Rich Vein.
Webbwood, Ont., Nov. 25, 1904.
W. E. Seelye, Esq.,
Brainerd, Minn.
Dear Sir:—
Yours of the 22nd received.
I have not time at present to answer your letter in full. We have uncovered the quartz in the hole that we intended for a well at the stamp mill and so far have found a vein of solid gold bearing ore ten foot wide and the Lord only knows how much wider. We have not as yet had it assayed but are constantly panning it and have as yet failed to find a pan that did not turn out rich in free milling gold. We will have some assayed tomorrow or next day and then can tell you exactly what it runs to the ton. We have heard from the rest of the machinery and expect it some time
the coming week.
Yours Respectfully,
WM. WOOD.

"BATTLING" NELSON OF CHICAGO
VICTORIOUS OVER THE DEN-VER FIGHTER.

BEATEN PUGILIST PUT UP GAME BATTLE FROM THE START UNTIL THE END.

San Francisco, Nov. 30.—In the greatest fight witnessed between little men in years, "Battling" Nelson of Chicago won from "Young Corbett" of Denver in ten rounds. From the tap of the gong until Corbett's seconds threw up the sponge Nelson was master of the situation at every stage of the game. His in-fighting was a revelation and the most brilliant witnessed in any ring here. For the last three rounds of the fight Corbett was as helpless as a baby, but he wobbled around groggily and gamely, until the repeated calls from around the house to stop the fight caused Harry Tutthill to enter the ring. The fight was over and the new man is in line to fight Champion Britt.

The story of the fight is simply told. Corbett entered the ring at 9:45 almost unnoticed owing to the presence of a gaudy hued negro whom Announcer Billy Jordan introduced as Count Bisrial, champion Graeco-Roman wrestler of the world.

"Battling" Nelson entered five minutes later.

Although it was not a championship affair, the tense stillness of the big house as the men squared up to each other showed the interest taken in the event.

Both men showed extreme caution in the first round, there being an evident disposition to take each other's measure. Neither showed the slightest nervousness.

Went Right at His Man.

In the second round Nelson went right at his man, winning the cheers of the house. The milling was fast and Corbett looked a bit dazed but wrote a contemptuous smile. Corbett was bleeding at the nose when he went to his corner. Nelson surprised the house by his brilliant in-fighting.

Corbett was bleeding freely at the end of the third round. The next two rounds showed some of the fastest milling seen in any ring. Nelson continually forced Corbett to the ropes and beat him badly with short-arm blows. "Keep away from him" continually yelled Corbett's seconds. They began to realize that the Chicago lad was the superior of the man who was supposed to be master at in-fighting, but Corbett always came back swift and hard when away at arm's length. Then the gruelling work of Nelson began to tell. Corbett was between the ropes three-fourths of the time. He repeatedly missed uppercuts and swings that would have ended the fight at this stage had they landed.

The sixth was a furious round which ended in Nelson beating Corbett all over the ring. The house was going wild. Nelson kept up the work in the seventh, beating Corbett until his face was streaming with blood. Corbett had but one chance—to lay for and land the punch for which he is famous, but he never got the chance. In the eighth Nelson even outboxed the Denver lad, who was all but out when the bell rang.

The Ninth a Terrible Round.

The ninth was a terrible round. Corbett withstood blow after blow with marvelous endurance. "Keep away, keep away; use judgment," his seconds kept repeating. But Corbett missed again and again. He seemed to lose judgment, strength and every quality which had formerly gained him fame.

The cry of "stop the fight" was yelled from every part of the house, but it was not until the tenth that the butchering ended. Corbett wobbled around the ring gamely, but was as helpless as a lame duck. Harry Tutthill then jumped into the ring and a great yell went up from the crowd. The fight was over.

Corbett, bathed in blood and with a sickly smile, shook hands with the victor and was then helped out of the ring. Nelson looked strong and was unmarked. He received the congratulations of scores of friends who crowded about him. After posing for the snapshot men he was carried off on the shoulders of his smiling friends.

A large crowd attended the fight, which was held in Woodward's pavilion. The men both weighed in at 130 pounds. Corbett was the favorite at odds of 2 to 1.

Sure Relief for Women.

No. 18 Central Ave. Hot Springs, Ark., April 30, 1903.

Eighteen months ago I was so completely run down that my body ached from head to foot. My back seemed to break in two and I suffered intense pain in the lower abdomen. I could not afford to lay off and take a rest, and no medicine helped me any.

A friend told me how much Wine of Cardui built her up and advised me by all means to take it. The day I took the first dose the recovery of my health began. It was nearly three months before I was entirely cured, but at the end of that time I was in better health than I had been for seven years.

I look on Wine of Cardui as the most blessed medicine that a woman could possibly take when she feels sick and tired of life.

Anna Nelson
ORATOR, WEDNESDAY CHAUTAUQUE CLUB.

WINE of CARDUI

Mrs. Nelson describes the condition of thousands of women. That condition comes by slow stages. Usually the important function of menstruation is at first slightly irregular. Then comes the painful periods. Bearing-down pains and ovarian inflammation follow. Finally the nervous system gives way and the whole system has become affected and the pains rack the body from head to foot.

Wine of Cardui is a menstrual regulator of established reputation. No woman who takes it suffers as Mrs. Nelson suffered. It gives speedy and complete relief from the torturing menstrual agonies which are making so many women invalids today. Do not let yourself come to the pitiable condition Mrs. Nelson describes.

SEEING A PICTURE.

Try to Look at It Through the Eyes of the Artist Who Painted It.

The first necessity for the proper seeing of a picture is to try to see it through the eyes of the artist who painted it. This is not a usual method. Generally people look only through their own eyes and like or dislike a picture according as it does or does not suit their particular fancy. These people will tell you, "Oh, I don't know anything about painting, but I know what I like," which is their way of saying, "If I don't like it right off I don't care to be bothered to like it at all."

Such an attitude of mind cuts one off from growth and development, for it is as much as to say, "I am very well satisfied with myself and quite indifferent to the experiences and feelings of other men." Yet it is just this feeling and experience of another man which a picture gives us. If you consider a moment you will understand why. The world itself is a vast panorama, and from it the painter selects his subject—not the copy of it exactly, since it would be impossible for him to do this even if he tried. How could he represent, for example, each blade of grass, each leaf upon a tree? So what he does is to represent the subject as he sees it, as it appears to his sympathy or interest, and if twelve artists painted the same landscape the result would be twelve different pictures, differing according to the way in which each man had been impressed by the scene—in fact, according to his separate point of view or separate way of seeing it, influenced by his individual experience and feeling.—Charles H. Coffin in St. Nicholas.

We have uncovered the quartz in the hole that we intended for a well at the stamp mill and so far have found a vein of solid gold bearing ore ten foot wide and the Lord only knows how much wider. We have not as yet had it assayed but are constantly panning it and have as yet failed to show a pan that did not turn out rich in free milling gold. We will have some assayed tomorrow or next day and then can tell you exactly what it runs to the ton. We have heard from the rest of the machinery and expect it some time the coming week.

Wine of Cardui is a menstrual regulator of established reputation. No woman who takes it suffers as Mrs. Nelson suffered. It gives speedy and complete relief from the torturing menstrual agonies which are making so many women invalids today. Do not let yourself come to the pitiable condition Mrs. Nelson describes.

Secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today and begin treatment immediately.

Dear Sir:—

Yours of the 22nd received.

I have not time at present to answer your letter in full. We have uncovered the quartz in the hole that we intended for a well at the stamp mill and so far have found a vein of solid gold bearing ore ten foot wide and the Lord only knows how much wider. We have not as yet had it assayed but are constantly panning it and have as yet failed to show a pan that did not turn out rich in free milling gold. We will have some assayed tomorrow or next day and then can tell you exactly what it runs to the ton. We have heard from the rest of the machinery and expect it some time the coming week.

Yours Respectfully,

WM. WOOD.

AT ABOUT THE SAME HOUR.

Two Iowa Men Try to Kill Their Wives and Themselves.

Des Moines, Ia., Nov. 30.—At about the same hour Tuesday night two husbands tried to kill their wives and then destroy themselves. One of them, Frank Billings, a sporting man, was successful. He shot and killed his wife, better known as Cella Baldwin, and then turned the gun on himself, inflicting wounds that resulted in his death in twenty minutes.

The other husband, John Head, a son of Hahlon Head of Jefferson, Ia., a prominent politician and business man, was not successful. He attacked his wife with a large knife, but merely wounded her slightly about the face. Head then stabbed himself near the jugular vein, but missed it and will recover.

The Billings murder and suicide arose from the refusal of the woman to furnish money for Billings to go to Kansas and engage in the saloon business. Head's actions were due to despondency.

HE STOLE MONEY AT AITKIN

From H. J. White, Manager of Willard Hotel, While the Latter Was Sleeping.

Chief Simmons last night arrested a man who gave his name as George Ganalan and today Sheriff Haugen came down from Aitkin and took him back. The arrest was made on information received from the authorities at Aitkin.

The prisoner is wanted for the theft of $22.50 from Manager H. J. White, of the Willard hotel. It seems that he had been bumming around town during the day and in the evening borrowed a quarter to go and buy a bed at the Willard. About 6 o'clock in the morning the night clerk went up to call Mr. White and left the door of his room open. The man Ganalan slept in a room just across the hall and when he got up, which was about 6 o'clock, he is thought to have noticed the door of Mr. White's room open. It is believed that he walked in and as Mr. White was dozing took the wallet from his trousers pocket and made his exit without being heard.

As he was the only man sleeping on this floor suspicion was naturally turned to him and Mr. White discovered he came to Brainerd and followed him.

It was discovered yesterday afternoon that a man answering Ganalan's description had been into Cale's and bought some goods, tendering in payment for the same a new $10 bill which Mr. White identified as being one which he got from a bank at Aitkin. The man was traced to the N. P. house here and Chief Simmons placed him under arrest. He had but $3 in money on his person when arrested.

Were Thrown into Lockup
Last Night

Gust Wahlstrom, claiming his home as Little Falls, came down from the north yesterday and last night started to paint things a rich, red hue, but this morning his countenance had a reverse appearance and he looked like a man who wanted to go home quick.

He with a few companions thought they would have to do things "right" so went down to the houses on water street. It is claimed that Gust "spoke goo-goo's" to one of the demimondes. She smiled and Gust smiled. He bought some beer and then he and his party started for up town. After he got out of the house he found that he had been fleeced of his coin, something like $27. The men went back but they got no satisfaction and then came up town and made a complaint.

Officer Hurley went down and placed the woman with whom Wahlstrom was talking under arrest and also took Gust himself and locked both up. Her name was tabbed as Eva Rock.

This morning Gust did not want to make a complaint against the woman at first so she was charged with frequenting a house of ill fame and was fined $12.50 by the court.

County Attorney Crowell, however, decided that Wahlstrom could not get out of it that easy and a complaint will be made against the woman.

"WAY DOWN EAST."

Joseph R. Grismer's excellent elaboration of Lottie Blair Parker's story "Way Down East" which comes to the Brainerd opera house on Monday night is one of the few plays that has a true stamp of lasting popularity. It attracts the theatre-goers and wins to the theatre, hundreds upon hundreds of those who are rarely seen within a place of theatrical amusement. The main theme of "Way Down East" is the oft told story of a trusting woman, who being deceived by a mock marriage, endeavors to rely upon her own ability for support, and when all her trials seem to drag her down, she is saved by the manliness of a true friend. The story is unfolded in the picturesque surroundings of a New England village, that brings in all the quaint and lovable characters which gives such delightful local color to this play.

The comedy is of the bright and clean kind that refreshes as well as amuses, and the realistic effects, notably the marvelous blizzard, are extremely ingenious and effective. Prices $1, 75c, 50c and 25c. Seat sale opens at H. P. Dunn's Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

"RUDOLPH AND ADOLPH"

The fact that "Rudolph & Adolph" is coming to the Brainerd opera house on Thursday, December 8, is a guarantee that intending visitors to the theatre that evening will be more than repaid for their investment of time and money. It is one of the bright comedies before the public today and will be presented here by a company of legitimate actors who are usually scarce in farce comedy. Every one of the individual players are distinctly known in the good things of the stage and as the comedy is equal to the demand, the managers, Messrs. Broadhurst & Currie have seen fit to place the proper people to interpret its bright lines and original situations.

The sale of letters obtained on a North-Western Line in Minneapolis.

In all the checks returned Tuesday aggregate $1,000. ### CRUELTY STORY IS DENIED.

Roosevelt Children Did Not Tease a Turkey.

Washington, Nov. 30.—Mr. William Loeb, Jr., as secretary to the president, Tuesday issued an official statement denying that President Roosevelt's children had cruelly teased the Thanksgiving turkey sent to the president by Mr. Vose of Rhode Island, in accordance with the latter's annual custom.

The news item contained an account of supposed maltreatment by the Roosevelt children of the Thanksgiving turkey which Mr. Vose sent to the White House. The article stated that the children released the turkey and chased it all over the White House grounds, plucking at it and teasing it and yelling and laughing until the bird was well nigh exhausted, while the president looked on and laughed.

The turkey was dressed when Mr. Vose sent it and was used for Thanksgiving dinner.

SHOVED HIS DIPPER OUT

Astute Individual Charged With Stealing About $22.50 Ar- rested Last Night

HE STOLE MONEY AT AITKIN
From H. J. White, Manager of Willard Hotel, While the Latter Was Sleeping.

Chief Simmons last night arrested a man who gave his name as George Ganalan and today Sheriff Haugan came down from Aitkin and took him back. The arrest was made on information received from the authorities at Aitkin.

The prisoner is wanted for the theft of $22.50 from Manager H. J. White, of the Willard hotel. It seems that he had been bunning around town during the day and in the evening borrowed a quarter to go and buy a bed at the Willard. About 6 o'clock in the morning the night clerk went up to call Mr. White and left the door of his room open. The man Ganalan slept in a room just across the hall and when he got up, which was about 6 o'clock, he is thought to have noticed the door of Mr. White's room open. It is believed that he walked in and as Mr. White was dozing took the wallet from his trousers pocket and made his exit without being heard.

As he was the only man sleeping on this floor suspicion was naturally turned to him and Mr. White discovered he came to Brainerd and followed him.

It was discovered yesterday afternoon that a man answering Ganalan's description had been into Cale's and bought some goods, tendering in payment for the same a new $10 bill which Mr. White identified as being one which he got from a bank at Aitkin. The man was traced to the N. P. house here and Chief Simmons placed him under arrest. He had but $3 in money on his person when arrested.

Ganalan denies having had anything to do with the theft of the money, but it is understood that the authorities at Aitkin have evidence which they believe will convict him.

AMOUNT STOLEN WAS $27.00
He and Woman Named Eva Rock

Last Night

Gust Wahlstrom, claiming his home as Little Falls, came down from the north yesterday and last night started to paint things a rich, red hue, but this morning his countenance had a reverse appearance and he looked like a man who wanted to go home quick.

He with a few companions thought they would have to do things "right" so went down to the houses on water street. It is claimed that Gust "spoke goo-goo" to one of the demimondes. She smiled and Gust smiled. He bought some beer and then he and his party started for up town. After he got out of the house he found that he had been fleeced of his coin, something like $27. The men went back but they got no satisfaction and then came up town and made a complaint.

Officer Hurley went down and placed the woman with whom Wahlstrom was talking under arrest and also took Gust himself and locked both up. Her name was tabbed as Eva Rock.

This morning Gust did not want to make a complaint against the woman at first so she was charged with frequenting a house of ill fame and was fined $12.50 by the court.

County Attorney Crowell, however, decided that Wahlstrom could not get out of it that easy and a complaint will be made against the woman.

WETMORE'S FIND

By Rita Kelley

Copyright, 1901, by Rita Kelley

"Oh, I won't like him. I hate recommended people."

"But, Jo"—Miss Pendleton put her head out of the car window and nodded at the handsome girl in the smart turnout—"a governor's son and red hair!" she coaxed.

"Not the Prince of Pilsen and Rudolph Rassendyl. I've heard nothing but Guy Wetmore for three weeks, and I'm sick of him—a pink of perfection, a prig who wears nose glasses. I'll put him through his paces." She gathered up the lines.

"Now, Jo, don't get into any of your western pranks. This isn't Wyoming, you know, and we really want you to like each other."

The suburban train shrieked and gave a jerk. "Come for me at 5," Miss Pendleton called, and Jo had only time to make a move as the train rolled by, and she turned the brown cob's head down the road. The steady grasp of the lines kept him inquiringly swift as

"S-sh! Be still! I think I've got a bite!"

the conveyance with its sunburned, white shirt waisted occupant howled along between the low stone walls.

"We're not going that way," she said, bringing the horse up short at a crossroad. "You're just like the rest of these poky people, Christopher; you move along in the same old rut. Just because you came down that road to the station doesn't argue that you are going back. I mean to go down this way and see what's doing." Whereupon she turned the equipage, and down the road in the hot sun they went in the opposite direction.

Away they sped from the big country house, where a straggling house party was trying to keep itself amused till the lion of the hour should appear and proceed to fall in love with the hostess's niece, Jo Pendleton.

"Where's the bridge, Christopher? Why, haven't you got a bridge here? Don't you have bridges in the east?" the girl's cool voice inquired of the inert horse pulled up beside a shallow, sparkling stream. "There's the house over there," pointing the whip across to a distant pile of red roof and large chimneys.

"Well, you'll have to go across," calmly, "Mr. Guy Randolph Wetmore arrives on the 10:10 and inspects the rifle range till lunch, when Miss Joanna Pendleton, in best bib and tucker, perforce, is presented for his royal approval. Didn't you ever see a stream before, Christopher? Go on!"

At the touch of the whip the horse plunged snorting into the swiftly flowing water, floundered on for a pace or two and stopped, his legs braced, ears down.

"Well, Christopher, if you aren't a fool!"

But the horse, snorting viciously, refused to budge. Forward, backward, sideways, it was all the same.

"Well!" The whip went into its stock emphatically. "You needn't think I am going to sit out here in this creek all day. You will go across, Christopher. See if you don't."

Pins dropping on the leather cushions, a ripping open of hooks, a rustle of silk, and the natty brown golf skirt dropped about her feet. There was a flash of little patent leathers, a length of drop stitch stocking, a flirt of an abbreviated and billowy white petticoat, as she vaulted over the wheel and splashed down into the water.

"It is kind of cool, Christopher," she rattled on, "though you've been in long enough to get used to it. Come on!" Walking around to the head, holding to the shaft, her skirt scarcely dipping in the water, she gave a tug to the hitching strap.

"Christopher, don't be silly!" she started on encouragingly.

Snorting, puffing, placing one foot carefully before the other, he followed. Across the little stream, up the bank and on to the sandy road again she held the strap taut.

"It's pretty wet, Christopher," as he gave a mighty shake and thrashed his tail about, "only your old patent leathers won't be ruined." She looked ruefully down at her soaking feet. She shook the ruffles of her diminutive skirt. "Wouldn't Aunt Pendleton have a fit? Gracious!"

She looked up just in time to catch the end of an amused glance from the blue eyes of a young fellow in gray golf shirt who was walking leisurely away with his head turned in the direction of the red tiles. He had wonderful red hair.

She turned and scrambled precipitately into the cart. Picking up the lines, she said in a subdued whisper:

"Dear me, Christopher, this isn't Wyoming, is it?"

The wagon turnout with its flushed occupant disappeared down the road toward the red roofs in a cloud of dust. "But haven't you seen her anywhere?" Miss Pendleton's usually serene voice was agitated.

"Not anywhere," echoed the big voice of the athletic young fellow at her elbow. He passed his hand slowly across his mouth. "Some one thought they saw her about 11 driving into the stables. They weren't sure."

"She is such a foolish child, and yet I can't believe anything has happened to her. She is so used to taking care of herself, I do wish she were a little less self-sufficient." Miss Pendleton's voice was plaintive.

She and Mr. Guy Randolph Wetmore were part of a searching party instituted for the recovery of Miss Joanna Pendleton, lately disappeared from her aunt's estate. It was sundown, and they strode along the river bank, peering one anxiously, the other politely, into every clump of overhanging bushes.

"That she should have taken this day of all others to behave unseemly grieves me. I wanted her to make a good impression." Miss Pendleton patted the young man's arm. "The two families have been so closely connected in friendship, I hoped."

"Take care, aunt. You're coming through."

"Oh!" Miss Pendleton started back, with a little scream. "Where?"

"Thin ice," commented the voice from below.

"But—but where have you been, Jo? Are you all right?" quavered Miss Pendleton, peering through the shrubbery at the girl, sleeves rolled above her elbows, sitting in the bow of a boat pulled up to shore.

"All here," came the answer.

"But I want you to come up, Jo, and meet Mr. Wetmore. We've been looking for you every place. You've given us such a scare."

"Can't. I'm too busy." She finished baiting her hook and cast out.

Miss Pendleton took the gray garbed, red headed individual by the arm and walked him around the bushes before the girl. Her hat was lying in the bottom of the boat, and her brown hair, piled high, gleamed gold in the sun. "Jo, this is Mr. Wetmore," she said severely.

The girl's eyes were fixed on the water at the point where the line dipped in.

"S-sh! Be still! I think I've got a bite!" she said. "Oh, how do you do, Mr. Wetmore?" She flashed a smile at him. "Take this line, will you?"

He stepped down into the boat and reached toward her. Deftly she seized the oars and pushed off from shore.

There's a string of fish down here that I couldn't pull in by myself," she announced as he sat down hard. And the boat shot out into the stream, leaving Miss Pendleton amazed and horrified on the bank.

It was clear and cool and moonlight when the regular creak of an oarlock floated over the stillness. A big flat boat containing two people moved across the open and grated upon the apron at the boathouse. Lights streamed out the windows of the big house at the top of the sloping lawn. He sprang lightly out and helped her. It took longer than was absolutely necessary.

"I didn't think then that you would ever care to be Wetmore," he drawled.

"If you ever leak, Guy Wetmore, well, me to Wyoming!" She looked up the graveled path. "We dropped the fish just as we pulled them out, and I'm Miss Pendleton for ten days. Remember that."

A subject that is sure to be discussed and on which there is likely to be legislation during the coming short session is that of the Philippines. The administration is known to be earnestly desirous that the Dingley tariff rates on certain goods imported into the United States from the Philippines be reduced and provision be made for carrying out extensive improvements in the islands. The insular government wishes to go forward with the plan of development of the Philippines, and laws are needed providing for building of highways and bridges, improvement of harbors and encouragement to railroad building. In laws already passed by congress it has been provided that after July 1, 1906, all commerce between the United States and the islands must be conducted in American ships. While a wise step from the standpoint of American shipping, it is argued that it will prove disastrous to the Philippines unless succeeded by legislation removing or further lowering tariff rates on goods from these islands. # A True Tonic Not a Stimulant

It is a medicine that revitalizes the exhausted nerve centres, gives strength and steadiness to the nervous system, elasticity and firmness to the muscles, and to the blood all the properties that go to make it rich and nourishing.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS

are, beyond a doubt, the most successful Nerve Medicine on earth.

Good digestion, ruddy complexion, splendid circulation, clear brain, steady nerves, sound, restful sleep, better health and greater strength of mind and body is what you may expect from the use of Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. Not in any mysterious way but from the hard fact that Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are composed of the elements of nature which go to form new, red corpuscles in the blood, or, in other words, make the blood rich in the nutritive principle which creates nerve force—the power which runs the machinery of the body.

With the vitality of the body thus brought to high water mark, weakness and disease give place to health and happiness.

Impaired digestion, irregular action of the feminine organism, weakness of heart, lungs or other bodily organs, pains, and aches and all the annoying consequences of weak nerves and blood disappear, because the cause of their existence is removed.

ALL RUN DOWN.

Miss Elsa Fauser of No. 43 Main St., Ontario, N. Y., says:

"Last summer I was in bad shape—all run down in health—no appetite and poor digestion—I did not sleep well and felt tired and languid all day. I was pale and the circulation was poor—I doctored all summer with no improvement. Seeing Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills recommended I got a box and used them and they thoroughly cured me—no more dullness or headache—sleep sound and refreshing, appetite good, digestion perfect—blood rich—circulation good—color excellent, in fact, vigorous and strong in every way. I can't speak too highly of the medicine as it certainly is a grand one."

GENERAL WEAKNESS.

Margaret Beedham of 526 Federal Street, Youngstown, O., says:

"I tried many medicines and doctors for nervous troubles, sleeplessness and general weakness with no result until I used Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. Since then I sleep finely—eat well—have a good digestion and feel like a new woman in every way. I am no longer weak and nervous, but strong and vigorous and attend to my household duties with ease and pleasure. I consider them an elixir of life for nervous people, and a God-send gift of the melancholy, sleepless brain."

WETMORE'S FIND

By Rita Kelley

Copyright, 1901, by Rita Kelley

"Oh, I won't like him. I hate recommended people."

"But, Jo"—Miss Pendleton put her head out of the car window and nodded at the handsome girl in the smart turnout—"a governor's son and red hair!" she coaxed.

"Not the Prince of Pilsen and Rudolph Rassendyl. I've heard nothing but Guy Wetmore for three weeks, and I'm sick of him—a pink of perfection, a prig who wears nose glasses. I'll put him through his paces." She gathered up the lines.

"Now, Jo, don't get into any of your western pranks. This isn't Wyoming, you know, and we really want you to like each other."

The suburban train shrieked and gave a jerk. "Come for me at 5," Miss Pendleton called, and Jo had only time to make a move as the train rolled by, and she turned the brown cob's head down the road. The steady grasp of the lines kept him inquiringly swift as the conveyance with its sunburned, white shirt waisted occupant bowed along between the low stone walls.

"We're not going that way," she said, bringing the horse up short at a crossroad. "You're just like the rest of these poky people, Christopher; you move along in the same old rut. Just because you came down that road to the station doesn't argue that you are going back. I mean to go down this way and see what's doing." Where with she turned the equipage, and down the road in the hot sun they went in the opposite direction.

Away they sped from the big country house, where a straggling house party was trying to keep itself amused till the lion of the hour should appear and proceed to fall in love with the hostess' niece, Jo Pendleton.

"Where's the bridge, Christopher? Why, haven't you got a bridge here? Don't you have bridges in the east?" the girl's cool voice inquired of the inert horse pulled up beside a shallow, sparkling stream. "There's the house over there," pointing the whip across to a distant pile of red roof and large chimneys.

"Well, you'll have to go across," calmly. "Mr. Guy Randolph Wetmore arrives on the 10:10 and inspects the rifle range till lunch, when Miss Joanna Pendleton, in best bib and tucker, perforce, is presented for his royal approval. Didn't you ever see a stream before, Christopher? Go on!"

At the touch of the whip the horse plunged snorting into the swiftly flowing water, floundered on for a pace or two and stopped, his legs braced, ears down.

"Well, Christopher, if you aren't a fool!"

But the horse, snorting viciously, refused to budge. Forward, backward, sidewise, it was all the same.

"Well!" The whip went into its stock emphatically. "You needn't think I am going to sit out here in this creek all day. You will go across, Christopher. See if you don't."

Mrs. dropping on the leather cushions, a ripping open of hooks, a rustle of silk, and the natty brown golf skirt dropped about her feet. There was a flash of little patent leathers, a length of drop stitch stocking, a flirt of an abbreviated and billowy white petticoat, as she vaulted over the wheel and splashed down into the water.

"It is kind of cool, Christopher," she rattled on, "though you've been in long enough to get used to it. Come on!" Walking around to the head, holding to the shaft, her skirt scarcely dipping in the water, she gave a tug to the hitching strap.

"Christopher, don't be silly!" she started on encouragingly.

Snorting, puffing, placing one foot carefully before the other, he followed. Across the little stream, up the bank and on to the sandy road again she held the strap taut.

"It's pretty wet, Christopher," as he

gave a mighty shake and thrashed his tail about, "only your old patent leathers won't be ruined." She looked ruefully down at her soaking feet. She shook the ruffles of her diminutive skirt. "Wouldn't Aunt Pendleton have a fit? Gracious!"

She looked up just in time to catch the end of an amused glance from the blue eyes of a young fellow in gray golf shirt who was walking leisurely away with his head turned in the direction of the red tiles. He had wonderful red hair.

She turned and scrambled precipitately into the cart. Picking up the lines, she said in a subdued whisper:

"Dear me, Christopher, this isn't Wyoming, is it?"

The wagon turnout with its flushed occupant disappeared down the road toward the red roofs in a cloud of dust. "But haven't you seen her anywhere?" Miss Pendleton's usually serene voice was agitated.

"Not anywhere," echoed the big voice of the athletic young fellow at her elbow. He passed his hand slowly across his mouth. "Some one thought they saw her about 11 driving into the stables. They weren't sure."

"She is such a foolish child, and yet I can't believe anything has happened to her. She is so used to taking care of herself. I do wish she were a little less self-sufficient." Miss Pendleton's voice was plaintive.

She and Mr. Guy Randolph Wetmore were part of a searching party instituted for the recovery of Miss Joanna Pendleton, lately disappeared from her aunt's estate. It was sundown, and they stroiled along the river bank, peering one anxiously, the other politely, into every clump of overhanging bushes.

"That she should have taken this day of all others to behave unseemly grieves me. I wanted her to make a good impression." Miss Pendleton patted the young man's arm. "The two families have been so closely connected in friendship, I hoped."

"Take care, aunt. You're coming through."

"Thin ice," commented the voice from below.

"But—but where have you been, Jo? Are you all right?" quavered Miss Pendleton, peering through the shrubbery at the girl, sleeves rolled above her elbows, sitting in the bow of a boat pulled up to shore.

"All here," came the answer.

"But I want you to come up, Jo, and meet Mr. Wetmore. We've been looking for you every place. You've given us such a scare."

"Can't. I'm too busy." She finished baiting her hook and cast out.

Miss Pendleton took the gray garbed, red headed individual by the arm and walked him around the bushes before the girl. Her hat was lying in the bottom of the boat, and her brown hair, glistened high, gleamed gold in the sun.

"Jo, this is Mr. Wetmore," she said severely.

The girl's eyes were fixed on the water at the point where the line dipped in.

"S-sh! Be still! I think I've got a bite!" she said. "Oh, how do you do, Mr. Wetmore?" She flashed a smile at him. "Take this line, will you?"

He stepped down into the boat and reached toward her. Deftly she seized the oars and pushed off from shore.

With the vitality of the body thus brought to high water mark, weakness and disease give place to health and happiness.

Impaired digestion, irregular action of the feminine organism, weakness of heart, lungs or other bodily organs, pains, and aches and all the annoying consequences of weak nerves and blood disappear, because the cause of their existence is removed.

WETMORE'S FIND

By Rita Kelley

Copyright, 1901, by Rita Kelley

"Oh, I won't like him. I hate recommended people."

"But, Jo"—Miss Pendleton put her head out of the car window and nodded at the handsome girl in the smart turnout—"a governor's son and red hair!" she coaxed.

"Not the Prince of Pilsen and Rudolph Rassendyl. I've heard nothing but Guy Wetmore for three weeks, and I'm sick of him—a pink of perfection, a prig who wears nose glasses. I'll put him through his paces." She gathered up the lines.

"Now, Jo, don't get into any of your western pranks. This isn't Wyoming, you know, and we really want you to like each other."

The suburban train shrieked and gave a jerk. "Come for me at 5," Miss Pendleton called, and Jo had only time to make a move as the train rolled by, and she turned the brown cob's head down the road. The steady grasp of the lines kept him inquiringly swift as

the conveyance with its sunburned, white shirt waisted occupant howled

along between the low stone walls.

"We're not going that way," she said, bringing the horse up short at a crossroad. "You're just like the rest of these poky people, Christopher; you move along in the same old rut. Just because you came down that road to the station doesn't argue that you are going back. I mean to go down this way and see what's doing." Whereupon she turned the equipage, and down the road in the hot sun they went in the opposite direction.

Away they sped from the big country house, where a straggling house party was trying to keep itself amused till the lion of the hour should appear and proceed to fall in love with the hostess's niece, Jo Pendleton.

"Where's the bridge, Christopher? Why, haven't you got a bridge here? Don't you have bridges in the east?" the girl's cool voice inquired of the inert horse pulled up beside a shallow, sparkling stream. "There's the house over there," pointing the whip across to a distant pile of red roof and large chimneys.

"Well, you'll have to go across," calmly. "Mr. Guy Randolph Wetmore arrives on the 10:10 and inspects the rifle range till lunch, when Miss Joanna Pendleton, in best bib and tucker, perforce, is presented for his royal approval. Didn't you ever see a stream before, Christopher? Go on!"

At the touch of the whip the horse plunged snorting into the swiftly flowing water, floundered on for a pace or two and stopped, his legs braced, ears down.

"Well, Christopher, if you aren't a fool!"

But the horse, snorting viciously, refused to budge. Forward, backward, sidewise, it was all the same.

"Well!" The whip went into its stock emphatically. "You needn't think I am going to sit out here in this creek all day. You will go across, Christopher. See if you don't."

Pins dropping on the leather cushions, a ripping open of hooks, a rustle of silk, and the natty brown golf skirt dropped about her feet. There was a flash of little patent leathers, a length of drop stitch stocking, a flit of an abbreviated and billowy white petticoat, as she vaulted over the wheel and splashed down into the water.

"It is kind of cool, Christopher," she rattled on, "though you've been in long enough to get used to it. Come on!" Walking around to the head, holding to the shaft, her skirt scarcely dipping in the water, she gave a tug to the hitching strap.

"Christopher, don't be silly!" she started on encouragingly.

Snorting, puffing, placing one foot carefully before the other, he followed. Across the little stream, up the bank and on to the sandy road again she held the strap taut.

"It's pretty wet, Christopher," as he

gave a mighty shake and thrashed his tail about, "only your old patent leathers won't be ruined." She looked ruefully down at her soaking feet. She shook the ruffles of her diminutive skirt. "Wouldn't Aunt Pendleton have a fit? Gracious!"

She looked up just in time to catch the end of an amused glance from the blue eyes of a young fellow in gray golf shirt who was walking leisurely away with his head turned in the direction of the red tiles. He had wonderful red hair.

She turned and scrambled precipitately into the cart. Picking up the lines, she said in a subdued whisper:

"Dear me, Christopher, this isn't Wyoming, is it?"

The wagon turnout with its flushed occupant disappeared down the road toward the red roofs in a cloud of dust. "But haven't you seen her anywhere?" Miss Pendleton's usually serene voice was agitated.

"Not anywhere," echoed the big voice of the athletic young fellow at her elbow. He passed his hand slowly across his mouth. "Some one thought they saw her about 11 driving into the stables. They weren't sure."

"She is such a foolish child, and yet I can't believe anything has happened to her. She is so used to taking care of herself, I do wish she were a little less self-sufficient." Miss Pendleton's voice was plaintive.

She and Mr. Guy Randolph Wetmore were part of a searching party instituted for the recovery of Miss Joanna Pendleton, lately disappeared from her aunt's estate. It was sundown, and they stroled along the river bank, peering one anxiously, the other politely, into every clump of overhanging bushes.

"That she should have taken this day of all others to behave unseemly grieves me. I wanted her to make a good impression." Miss Pendleton patted the young man's arm. "The two families have been so closely connected in friendship, I hoped!"

"Take care, aunt. You're coming through."

"Thin ice," commented the voice from below.

"But—but where have you been, Jo? Are you all right?" quavered Miss Pendleton, peering through the shrubbery at the girl, sleeves rolled above her elbows, sitting in the bow of a boat pulled up to shore.

"All here," came the answer.

"But I want you to come up, Jo, and meet Mr. Wetmore. We've been looking for you every place. You've given us such a scare."

"Can't. I'm too busy." She finished baiting her hook and cast out.

Miss Pendleton took the gray garbed, red headed individual by the arm and walked him around the bushes before the girl. Her hat was lying in the bottom of the boat, and her brown hair, piled high, gleamed gold in the sun. "Jo, this is Mr. Wetmore," she said severely.

The girl's eyes were fixed on the water at the point where the line dipped in.

"S-sh! Be still! I think I've got a bite!" she said. "Oh, how do you do, Mr. Wetmore?" She flashed a smile at him. "Take this line, will you?"

He stepped down into the boat and reached toward her. Deftly she seized the oars and pushed off from shore.

There's a string of fish down here that I couldn't pull in by myself," she announced as he sat down hard. And the boat shot out into the stream, leaving Miss Pendleton amazed and horrified on the bank.

It was clear and cool and moonlight when the regular creak of an oarlock floated over the stillness. A big flat boat containing two people moved across the open and grated upon the apron at the boathouse. Lights streamed out the windows of the big house at the top of the sloping lawn. He sprang lightly out and helped her. It took longer than was absolutely necessary.

"I didn't think then that you would ever care to be Wetmore," he drawled.

"If you ever leak, Guy Wet—Well, me to Wyoming!" She looked up the gravelled path. "We dropped the fish just as we pulled them out, and I'm 'Miss Pendleton' for ten days. Remember that."

DEED OF A DRUNKARD

KENTUCKY MAN KILLS HIS ENTIRE FAMILY AND HIMSELF WHILE DRUNK.

Ashland, Ky., Nov. 30.—The murder of a whole family by the drunken husband and father is reported from near Shelby, Pike county, Ky. Enoch Sloan, a farmer, went home from Shelby in a drunken condition and shot and killed his wife and four small children and then shot himself dead.

LAWMAKERS TO MEET

THE SHORT SESSION OF CONGRESS AND WHAT WILL COME BEFORE IT.

No Radical Legislation Expected. Laws Pertaining to Philippine Tariff and Improvements in Islands to Be Urged by President.

The second session of the Fifty-eighth congress will open in Washington on Dec. 5. This is termed the short session because instead of continuing until late spring or early summer it will terminate on March 3. With the inauguration of President Roosevelt, therefore, the present congress will go out of existence, and the members of the Fifty-ninth congress will begin to draw their salaries, though they will not meet for the purpose of making laws until a year hence unless an extra session should be called.

The Republicans have a majority in both houses of congress at present, and in the next congress this majority will be increased. As all branches of the government are to continue in the same hands, no radical changes are to be looked for in the legislation of either the second session of the present congress or the first session of the next.

A subject that is sure to be discussed and on which there is likely to be legislation during the coming short session is that of the Philippines. The administration is known to be earnestly desirous that the Dingley tariff rates on certain goods imported into the United States from the Philippines be reduced and provision be made for carrying out extensive improvements in the islands. The insular government wishes to go forward with the plan of development of the Philippines, and laws are needed providing for building of highways and bridges, improvement of harbors and encouragement to railroad building. In laws already passed by congress it has been provided that after July 1, 1906, all commerce between the United States and the islands must be conducted in American ships. While a wise step from the standpoint of American shipping, it is argued that it will prove disastrous to the Philippines unless succeeded by legislation removing or further lowering tariff rates on goods from these islands. As the enactment of the shipping law will raise freight rates, it is held that maintenance of the existing tariff would greatly retard if not prohibit commerce with the islands. It is said that an effort will be

Nervous Dyspepsia

A Disease that Robs You of Every Pleasure in Life—Hungry and Can't Eat—Makes You Nervous, Morose, Irritable and Despondent.

DR. A. W. CHASE'S NERVE PILLS

Overwork the stomach, or subject it to the depressing influence of worry, care or constant excitement, and it gives out. Ask it to digest anything, everything, at any time, and in half the time required, and like an overdriven horse, it balks. The reason for this lies in the close nerve relationship between the brain and stomach, and the fact that the irritation of either organ means the distress of the other. Nature intended the stomach should have regular hours—a time to work, a time to rest—and when you break up this habit you upset the whole arrangement. The stomach nerves become exhausted, the glands refuse to act, the food does not digest—there is pain, gas forms, bloating occurs. The heart becomes irregular and a nervous, irritable feeling sets in. This is nervous dyspepsia and Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills its cure.

Mrs. James H. Titus, of 107, Clinton St., Warren, Pa., says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are just splendid. My stomach bothered me for twelve years—food digesting slowly—heavy after eating. I was fearfully dizzy by spells and very nervous. I tried everything—other medicines, doctors, anything I was told to, but the Nerve Pills I got settled all this. They cured me. I feel well in every way today—no weakness or dizziness, and digestion splendid. I have and will continue to recommend them strongly, as I believe the medicine to be unequalled in its ability to cure such troubles, as it certainly acted like magic with me." 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine Co., Buffalo, N.Y. Portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M.D., on every package.
